

Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence – Tensions at the Fringes of the EU Stream 1: Balancing economic, ecological and social integration

Academic seminar Mobility and Equality – Friend or Foe?

Tuesday 7 June, 2016 – 13:00 – 16:00, QUB, 27 University Square Room 101

Bibliographical notes

Professor Catherine Barnard

Catherine Barnard is Professor of European Union Law and Labour Law and Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. Catherine is a leading expert on EU internal market and employment law and she has published extensively in these fields.

Dr Michael Johns

Michael is Chair of the Department of Political Science and Associate Professor at Laurentian University in Ontario, Canada. His work focuses on issues of social cohesion inside the European Union, with specific attention to intra-EU migration in Great Britain.

Cristina Juverdeanu

Cristina is currently a PhD candidate at King's College London researching on the topic of European citizenship. She holds a Master's Degree from Paris Institute of Political Studies (Sciences Po Paris) with a major in political analysis and a Bachelor's Degree from the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of Bucharest. Her research interests focus mainly on the European Union, citizenship, migration, identity and participation.

Dr. Nicolas Rennuy

Nicolas is College Lecturer and Fellow at Murray Edwards College, Cambridge. Nicolas teaches EU Law and explores the interface between national social security schemes and the free movement of persons, identifying and evaluating different models for the reconciliation of solidarity and mobility. Nicolas also acts as Analytical Expert for the European Commission.

Professor Dagmar Schiek

Dagmar is professor of law and also holds a Jean Monnet ad personam Chair in EU Law and Policy at Queen's University Belfast. Her main research interests concern the impact of EU (legal) integration on socio-economic reality in its Member States and globally. She has published widely in European Union Law and Comparative Law with specific emphasis on constitutionalism, labour law and anti-discrimination law. She directs CETLS and convenes TREUP.

Dr. Bal Sokhi-Bulley

Bal is a lecturer at Queen's University Belfast, School of Law. She works on rights, governance and critical theory at Queen. The main focus of her work is to examine rights as technologies of governmentality and their potential as a discourse of resistance. She has written in the contexts of international human rights NGOs, the European Union and Britain's Big Society, and on the topics of the EU's migrant crisis and riots.

Dr. Nikos Vogiatzis

Nikos is Lecturer in Law at the Liverpool Law School. His research and teaching interests are in the areas of EU Constitutional Law/ EU Governance, notably EU citizenship, transparency, the provisions on democratic principles; ombudsman institutions and other means of extra-judicial redress; the Law of the ECHR, in particular institutional questions, admissibility, and political rights.

Nina Miller Westoby

Nina is an ESRC PhD candidate at the University of Glasgow, School of Law. Her thesis is entitled, 'Narratives of Care in EU Law'. Prior to her PhD Nina was a Research Fellow at the University of Edinburgh where she worked on a socio-legal project investigating the operation of EU free movement rules within the UK legal system. She is also a qualified solicitor in Scotland and teaches EU and UK public law.

Dr Rebecca Zahn

Rebecca currently holds a lectureship in law at the University of Strathclyde. Prior to this, Rebecca was a lecturer at the University of Stirling from 2011 until 2015 and a Max Weber Postdoctoral Fellow at the European University Institute from 2010 until 2011. Rebecca completed her PhD, which was awarded the European Trade Union Confederation's Brian Bercusson Award, at the University of Edinburgh in 2011.

Dr Margarite Helena Zoetewij

Margarite is senior researcher at the University of Fribourg, Switzerland; her research within the framework of a project, funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation SNSF, focuses on EU (labor) migration law, and on its interaction with Swiss legislation on migration and integration.